Stichting Heineken Pensioenfonds

I. Disbursement of your pension

From the date of your retirement you will receive your Heineken retirement pension every month. Initially, a specification of your pension – in which all gross and net amounts are shown – is sent to your home address. After that you will receive a pension specification each time your net pension amount changes.

Disbursement takes place around the 15th of every month. Your pension is paid out as a net sum. Wage tax credit is not applied automatically when calculating the deductible tax and social security contributions. If you wish to diverge from this decision, then you must submit an income tax declaration form to the Heineken Pension Fund yourself.

For more details of taxation see the heading: "Retiring... and the tax authorities" under V.

II. Holiday pay

Holiday pay is included in the pension you receive every month. In other words, you will not receive holiday pay separately in May.

On the other hand, you do receive holiday pay on top of your AOW (State Pension) from the Social Insurance Bank (SVB).

III. Compensation

The Heineken Pension Fund aims to compensate pensions every year but does not give any guarantees in this respect! Each year the Heineken Pension Fund board decides whether compensation can be granted to supplement the pensions. In other words, you do not have the right to an additional payment. Moreover, the Heineken Pension Fund does not maintain a financial reserve to be able to grant compensation on future pensions. The financial position, or funding ratio of the Heineken Pension Fund is the decisive factor in this respect; the contribution you pay into your pension scheme does not include a component for compensation. The financing of this compensatory amount is taken from Heineken Pension Fund's returns on investment on the understanding that the funding ratio of the Heineken Pension Fund permits. The funding ratio must in any case be above 110%. Compensation can then only be made in part up to a certain upper limit for granting compensation. This upper limit does fluctuate but currently (2021) stands at approx. 125%.

The guideline for compensation is the increase in the consumer price index (CPI).

The Heineken Pension Fund informs you every year by letter whether your pension will be adjusted or not, and if so by what percentage.

IV. AOW

Basically¹, all residents of the Netherlands receive a State Pension from the government when reaching the age of 66 and 4 months (situation in 2021). The SVB (Social Insurance Bank) is the authority in this respect.

¹ To become eligible for the full State Pension you must have been a resident of the Netherlands for a period of 50 years, i.e. from the age of 16 and 4 months to 66 and 4 months. For each year less the AOW is cut by 2%.

Do you intend to move to a foreign country with your AOW? You cannot take the full amount of your AOW to certain countries. If you have a question to ask about AOW, for instance the current AOW rates, the best thing to do is contact the SVB by telephone or go to the SVB website: www.svb.nl. On the last page of this brochure you will find a list of SVB branches plus telephone numbers.

V. Retiring... and the tax authorities

Your Heineken pension is paid out as a net sum. However, if you have other income (e.g. AOW or another pension) in addition to your Heineken pension, it is quite possible that you could receive a tax return from the tax authorities at a later date.

Wage tax and social security contributions

Because you receive your Heineken pension and AOW or other pensions from different paying agents it can always be the case that too little wage tax and social security contributions are withheld from the total sum of the benefits. This is because both the Heineken Pension Fund and the Social Insurance Bank only deduct wage tax and social security contributions from that part of your income they pay to you, not from your total income.

This means that after adding up all your income components no account is taken of the possibility that part of your pension or AOW can place you in a higher tax bracket.

Income tax

If in your case too little is deducted in wage tax and social security contributions, at the close of the year in question the tax authorities will send you an income tax return form. Or, if you wish you can rectify the difference throughout the year by means of a Voorlopige Aanslag (provisional tax assessment). To obtain a provisional tax assessment form you must apply by letter addressed to the Belastingdienst Particulieren in your municipality. The best time to do this is when you have received the first monthly statements of your AOW and pension. If you attach copies of these statements to your letter, the tax authorities can immediately calculate the amount payable that year.

Lower rates after reaching the state pension age

From the age of 66 and 4 months you will pay less tax as a percentage than you were accustomed to. As a retiree you still do pay tax but almost all social insurance contributions end.

Go to the tax authorities' website: www.belastingdienst.nl for more information on taxes or for up-to-date figures. You can also call the taxline on freephone number 0800-0543.

VI. Retiring... and your Health Insurance

Your health insurance continues as it was before your retirement.

In addition to the contribution to your health insurer, for retirees there is an income-dependent contribution of 5.7% per month on a maximum income of € 58,311 (2021) on an annual basis (on your payment statement this is specified under "WN-premie ZVW"). The Heineken Pension Fund deducts this amount every month from your pension and transfers the money to the tax authorities. As of the date on which your retirement commences this contribution is no longer reimbursed. Also, any contributions made by Heineken for supplementary health insurance are stopped as well.

You must pay an income-dependent contribution of 5.7% per month on your AOW. This contribution is deducted by the Social Insurance Bank (SVB) (also on a maximum income of € 58,311 (2021) on an annual basis).

Because both the Heineken Pension Fund and the SVB are legally bound to deduct the income-dependent contribution up to the maximum amount, it is quite possible that you might pay too much over your total income. This can be claimed back from the tax authorities after the calendar year has come to an end.

If you reside in a foreign country and have any queries about the deduction of income-dependent contributions, or if you wish to object to the deduction of income-dependent contributions from your AOW or retirement pension payments, either by the SVB or the Heineken Pension Fund, you can contact the CAK (Central Administration Office for Medical Expenses). The CAK website includes details of how to contact the CAK: www.hetcak.nl/over/contact

VII. Retiring... the Heineken perks

As a Heineken employee you were accustomed to several highly-attractive perks, the Heineken staff Purchasing Card for instance. As a retiree you are still entitled to these perks.

Staff beverages

As a retiree you can continue to use your staff Purchasing Card. Purchases from the staff distribution depots will generally be deducted from your pension.

Regarding the sPC: when you retire your card will remain valid until the end of the year. You will be sent a new one automatically in December every year. You do not need to apply for a new one.

Contact the HR Department at Zoeterwoude if you have any queries about deductions made for staff beverage purchases. This department can be reached on:

Telephone number 071-5458020;

By email HRServices@heineken.com.

VIII. Voluntary savings scheme

After retirement you can also continue to use Heineken's voluntary savings scheme.

In line with the current rules you can deposit money direct into, and withdraw money from, your account. You can also have a monthly amount deducted from your pension and have it transferred into your savings account. If you wish to do this please first contact the HR Services Department (HRS).

The savings scheme is in your name only; it is not a joint account. Upon your death, your surviving relative can obtain disposal of the credit amount in the account after producing a so-called certificate of inheritance, a notarial document showing that he or she is your heir. If the savings amount is less than € 1000, a certificate of inheritance is not necessary.

The HR Services Department at Zoeterwoude is responsible for administration of the Voluntary Savings Scheme and sends you a statement of your savings balance each month. You can also contact this department for any queries you might have concerning the Voluntary Savings Scheme on:

Telephone number 071-5458020;
